• About 40 species of groupers classified under the sub family Serranidae are recorded from the Maldives
 • Habitat: Coral reefs and rocky environments
 • Diet: variety of fish and crustaceans. They are top predators
 • Life span: known to live long lives, up to 20 years
 • Spawning behaviour: Males usually defend their female spawning aggregations. They tend to return to the same spawning area every year
 • Reproductive peculiarity: After spawning at a female for one or more years, groupers change their sex and function as a male.
